

SAMUEL AGAIN.

HIS GRACEFUL ATTENTIONS TO "THE TIMES."

And the Ingenious Method He Adopted to Secure the Information of His Audience. "Ain't a-Goin' to Be Run out of town."

Rev. Sam Jones last evening indulged in one of his characteristic tirades against the newspaper in general, and THE TIMES in particular, and as his denunciations and accusations were all founded on what some one had told him, of course they were received by sensible people in his audience with the amount of credence which he allowed to any second-hand hearsay. He seemed to feel especially bitter in referring to sundry quotations made from his previous addresses before Los Angeles audiences, and denounced that portion of verbatim reports embodying some of his choicest slang as "scurrilous lies."

He said: "There has been only one verbatim report made of any of my discourses in this city, and that did have no slant in it, and if any man in this city can convict me of lying I am willing to leave the city. I have been working before the American public for 15 years, and I have had the devil workin' against me all the time, but I will proclaim the truth tonight if I am assassinated or die. These reports have come here and made garbled extracts of my remarks, with no truth in them, and for their benefit I will read an extract here: 'Jones went out and hung himself.' Go to you and do likewise."

If I had not kicked up so much disturbance about dancing, I'd say that to young folks back there I said, 'Give me a fiddle and a young buck's arm around me, and I'd be as happy as possible, dancing away.' I'd say that he is bound to be lost. Some of you like to live in hog heaven. Hog heaven is a place where there's plenty to eat and nothing to do."

Talking about men and women whom he had met, Jones said: "Then sometimes I meet a little fellow—one of those things that wear an 8 1/2 shoe and a 3 1/2 hat—one of those things I could put a horse in my pocket, and when I met him I'd think I had hit a toothpick."

"If the charges against me are untrue, how can you suffer that damnable sheet to be thrown over in your front yard?"

"If there is anything I despise it is a dull time."

"I'm no novice in this business. It's not the first time I've had the devil and his gang to attempt to intimidate me."

"There's no personal quarrel against me. It's against the minister. If any one will jump on me as Jones, the boy, I'll try and satisfy them."

"What is it an editor's business to stick his nose into a religious meeting? Why, he wouldn't know what the gospel is if he saw it coming down the road with a big flag over it."

Among his other vindictive, but in this case harmless, "hearsays," was the following: "Why, I heard a man say that the very man who is at the head of this newspaper that has been lying about me was convicted of criminal libel right in this town only about four months ago. There are plenty of people who want to roar and howl, and whoop all the time; well, let 'em. If I ought to be run out of this town the intelligent men who have been here every night would be the ones to say so; don't you think so? I am going to stay right here, and I am going to stay 'em out; they can't drum me out, 'cause I have got the drums and won't let 'em to 'em. I have got out personal feelings in this matter and never intend to have it. It ain't a personal quarrel; it's an official quarrel with me as a minister, and I am going to quarrel with 'em in that way, but if any of 'em will jump on Sam Jones as a boy he will give 'em the best he has got. I expect to drop this whole business when I get home. Now, as many of you believe I am right I want you to stand up."

As the majority of his hearers seemed to take his request as it was made, and not as it was evidently intended, i.e., that it would be a good plan for him to throw the whole matter about half of the audience over to their feet, when the veracious Sam remarked: "Now, all you reporters put it down that out of about thirty-nine hundred of 'em stood up on their hind feet in response. It is needless to say that the reporters 'put it down' what it was worth. His remarks here took a mighty stride from slang and senseless words of threats, and he launched into one of his oft-repeated anecdotes and closed the meeting seemingly without having impressed his hearers other than in the light of attempted humor and farce.

A Defender of the Faith.
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Sir: While unnecessary for me to attempt a defense of either "Sam Jones" or the "ministers" you criticize, I respectfully ask to say a word as one of those who say, in your last Saturday's issue, that it is "most remarkable that ministers of the gospel" by their presence sanction the meetings of the Rev. Sam P. Jones. But would it not be much more remarkable were they to be absent, since he is here on their express invitation?

Unquestionably, his methods, style and vocabulary are his own, and he is free to use them as an editor is to use his pen; nor is he less a man, or a gospel minister, because he is no priest. The wonderful success that has attended his labors everywhere is proof positive that God approves such labors, and in this he and his friends have good reason to be satisfied.

In all fairness you will admit that morality, law and order in Los Angeles are far from being dominant among many. Drunkenness, gambling, dancing, and other attendant evils, have long run riot, and lovers of purity and right have felt that the city was being made a hotbed of anarchy and every abolitionist, until it was high time that even "Sam Jones" should be called to try and help in the lessening of the evil, if not in its total overthrow, and I for one thank God that he is here. May full success crown his labors here also.

You condemn his use of strong words in his denunciation of folly and sin, but are any can any man's words be strong (more "vulgar," if you will) than those used by the wisest and best of preachers, Christ, when calling some of his hearers "a lot of heart," "a lot of hypocrites," "vipers," and "hypocrites." Nay, verily, and "wisdom is justified by her children" still. Permit me to suggest that "Sam Jones" seeks only the highest and most durable good of every one of the community—this and nothing else. May I ask, sir, if you have been here, yesterday or today, permit me to respectfully invite you to hear him in person, several times, and I shall be surprised if you do not change your criticisms.

I remain yours truly,
GEORGE BAUGH,
M. E. Church, South.

A Non-believer in Jones.
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] I am now 70 years of age, and I have been in at least one-half the States and Territories of our beloved country, and have been, as I thought, trying to serve Christ for more than 50 years, but according to the teachings of the Rev. Sam Jones, I, as well as hosts of others, have been very far from the foot of the cross of Christ, and we possibly all have dear ones long ago laid in the grave that we have fondly hoped to meet and greet in our Father's mansion, in that eternal home on high—in this house not made by hands, but eternal in the heavens—but oh, now we are all doomed to disappointment, according to Mr. Jones, and his teaching in this city. I heard him on Thursday night, at which time I understood him to say that no virtuous woman would allow herself to enter a room, and other remarks similar. I read in this morning's Times a report of his saying last night: "You have lots of men and women in this town who never put their feet into a church, and I never seen one so advertised or women so boldly solicit trade in any spot on earth as in this city. My God! how I would hate to raise a daughter in a town like this." The writer is, but a stranger in your city; still I have been here several weeks, and Mr. Jones possibly a week, and I think that he must be a wonderful liar, a character to leave in a doubtful state of mind.

There is a difference in students in at least some branches of study. In conclusion I have to say as a stranger, I have been around and about your city and vicinity a good deal, and can say your people, both old and young, men and women, will stand a comparison with any city of the same number of people in any State—both in good looks, good manners and, I believe, in sound moral character, and if I had a family of a dozen daughters I would have no fear about bringing them up in this city. The correct bringing up of either sons or daughters in any city or country depends on the kind, ever-loving care of the devoted father and mother. Yours very truly,
L. W. A.

A Lutheran View.
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Has any one of the Lutheran ministers of this city been present on the platform at Sam Jones's meetings? He did not, for the Lutheran minister, "Thou art of another spirit."

A LUTHERAN.
THE CHARTER.
Democrats Rallying to Its Support.

The reports from Sacramento yesterday, showing that the Los Angeles charter had been referred to the House Committee on Judiciary, and that the statement had been made on the floor of the Legislature that the Democrats were opposed to it, caused a great deal of talk on the streets, although the people were somewhat prepared for this move by the publication in THE TIMES some days ago, that something of this sort would probably be attempted. Probably 19 out of every 20 men spoken to were loud in their denunciation of the opposition to the charter, which was characterized as a scheme solely for the purpose of defeating the will of the people, as expressed at the ballot box, the lobbyists and corruptionists at Sacramento, both local and visiting, being handled without delay. The respectable members of the Democratic party are as heartily in favor of the charter as the Republicans, and while there are a portion of the population, composed of the gamblers, saloon men and other disreputable characters, the great majority of them heartily favor a good, strong, honest and clean police administration. About 12 of the Democratic party, however, of the perspective of party, began to realize that the matter would have to be pushed, if it was expected to have anything done at this session, but just what to do was not known. The matter was laid before the County and City Democratic Central Committee, and all the members denounced in emphatic terms the efforts of certain particulars to prevent the charter passing. It was finally resolved by the chairman of the committee and other prominent citizens, both Democratic and Republican, that a telegram should at once be sent to Senator White and Representatives Brerly and Wainwright, denying that the Democrats were opposed to the charter, and that a mass-meeting, irrespective of party, should be held in front of the courthouse tomorrow (Monday) evening, when addresses would be made by leading citizens, and a committee appointed to go to Sacramento and lay the true facts before the Legislature.

A number of petitions were in circulation, numerous signed, saying that all good citizens favored the charter, and calling on the Legislature to pass the instrument at the earliest possible moment. The following is a copy of the telegram sent to Sacramento:

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19, 1889.
To Senator Stephen M. White, Hon. J. M. Dutton, Hon. J. J. Briggs, Sacramento: The report that the Democrats of Los Angeles are opposed to the new charter is false. A monster mass meeting will be held for Monday night, irrespective of party. The meeting will be presided over by prominent Democrats.

(Signed) Chairman City Central Committee, R. A. LING, Secretary.

Chairman Gorman of the County Committee will also sign the dispatch, and will take part in Monday night's meeting, as will also Mayor Bryson, ex-Mayor W. H. Workman, and other prominent speakers. Much interest is felt in this matter, and it is expected that the meeting Monday night will be largely attended. As a prominent citizen remarked yesterday: "It will be a fine thing to see the charter defeated, as it will advertise to the world that we are a law-abiding people, and will give Los Angeles a black eye, from which it will take her a long time to recover."

"TALKED LONG ENOUGH."
The Women Reformers Getting Ready to "Re-act" to Act.

There was a goodly number of women, with very earnest faces, who gathered yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the Fort-street M. E. Church to devise ways and means for bringing about a better standard of morals in this city. There were representative women from the prominent churches, from the W. C. T. U., and from the public schools, and each had been with the determination to do something.

"We've talked long enough," said one of them. "Now let us band ourselves together, and go to work. Words are idle; it is one thing to decide a matter, and another thing to do it. We have held meetings after meetings, and what have we accomplished, other than a great deal of ineffectual talk? Let us stop wasting our time and go into the battle without further delay."

These sentiments apparently met with the approval of every woman present, and they all agreed to sign a public blank, "How many are willing to work?" only about half the number rose to their feet. But those who did signify their willingness, immediately set to work laying definite plans and appointing committees. They will take up:

First—Educational work; which will embrace methods of prevention of immorality, and will be carried on largely through the public meetings held in convenient localities and at set times.

Second—The establishment of a home for fallen women.

A lady said: "It has been publicly stated that Dr. Stradley and ex-Mayor Workman, together with some ladies who wish their names withheld from the public for the present, are taking steps to establish such a refuge."

A committee of three was appointed to investigate the matter of a home and report at the next meeting.

The matter of street advertising, by means of obscene pictures, which is so largely practiced in saloons here, and which is an insult to the womanhood of Los Angeles, was discussed, and a strong effort will be made to abolish this diabolical evil.

Steps will also be taken to interest the ministers to organize a White Cross movement among the young men of the city. This movement originated in England, and has become very popular, as well as in the East. The meeting then adjourned to Monday, January 28th, at the same time and place, when a report from the committees will be given as to work accomplished.

Indiscreetly Married.
Lottie Mitchell, a girl 11 years of age, who resides with her married sister, Mrs. McGovern, on Third street, near the Santa Fe bridge, was badly burned yesterday morning, as was also her sister, in attempting to extinguish the flames. While the family was at breakfast the young girl's dress caught behind from a gasoline heater. She did not know that she was on fire, and went to the hydrant to draw some water. The result was that she was badly burned. The victims of the accident are children of Mrs. Radcliffe of Wilmington street.

On Motion of the District Attorney the charge of murder against Louis Llera, growing out of the case of David Llera, who was convicted on Friday of murder in the second degree for the killing of Pedro Lopez, was yesterday dismissed by Judge Chester. The District Attorney stated that the evidence against the defendant was insufficient to warrant a conviction.

ORPHANS' HOME.

A BENEVOLENT AND WORTHY CHARITY.

Visit to the New Quarters and a Look through the Day Rooms and Dormitories—What the Managers Have Accomplished by Energy and Pluck.

"Have you ever visited the Orphans' Home?" inquired Mrs. Stevens, the president of its Board of Managers, of me one day last week.

"No," I replied; "I am interested in the institution, and like many others here in the city, I have often thought that I would visit it, but I have never seemed to find the convenient opportunity."

"Well, if you will go some day next week I will call for you with my carriage and take you down. I am sure that you will be interested in what we are doing and in what we have accomplished for the orphan children of this country."

And so it was arranged that I should make the visit, and yesterday I just to see and to appreciate what could be done in this new home for the homeless little ones which death has robbed of parental care, and which a generous Christian philanthropy has undertaken to nurture and provide for.

The massive new building has already been given a full description in these columns. It impresses one with its solidity and cheerfulness. It is a home built not only for the present but for future generations. It is one of the best-lighted buildings I ever saw, and the view from the building is reached, some portion of the day at least, by the health-giving sunshine.

Into the great dormitories where stand the beds of the children, the air is pure and the floors where men looking children linger, merry at their games, with their wealth of childish toys scattered in every direction.

I will take my readers along with me, for I expect that the majority of them have been delinquent, like myself, in visiting this institution, which is one of the noblest charities in our midst, to which every mother heart should be interested, as well as the heart of every philanthropist.

Going up the broad flight of front steps we stand a moment on the porch, which touches the bell, and the door is opened by the pleasant-faced and silver-haired matron, who gives us a cordial welcome to the home.

The broad hall is still bathed in the sunlight, and does not look to incur any indebtedness for furnishing, but the floors are spotlessly clean. The matron's office is upon the left as we enter, and the door is ajar, and then pass on to the nursery department, which is under the superintendence of Mrs. Chapman, a woman of great energy and ability.

Here I saw a beautiful baby of four months. A prettier baby one seldom sees, and I bent over to see it. The baby was smiling and reached up its dimpled hands to clasp my fingers. They have named the little one Violet because of its eyes, so like in color to that flower, whose perfume gladdens us where'er it grows. I wondered as I looked at it if there were not somewhere in Los Angeles a home that would open its arms to this tiny, tiny, some woman's breast where it might find loving shelter and tender care.

In the playroom of the nursery there was a merry group of little boys and girls at their play. Toys were scattered everywhere, and the children were amusing themselves with them or chasing each other with happy laughter. Marie Harren, Emma Behn, according Secretary, Theresa Ernst.

On the Bench again.
Justice Austin has returned from a pleasure vacation in San Francisco, and resumed his seat yesterday on the bench, from whence he laded out a superior article of "A No. 1" justice. The Justice stated unofficially to THE TIMES reporter yesterday that the weather in San Francisco during his stay there was cold, disagreeable and sloppy, and that he was very glad to get back to the climate par excellence of Los Angeles.

Installation.
The following officers of La Esperanza Parlor No. 24, N. D. G. W., were formally installed by D. D. G. P. Minnie Wright yesterday afternoon: Past President, Minnie Wright; President, Frank McCreery; First Vice-President, Mrs. Ella Fisher; Second Vice-President, Mollie White; Third Vice-President, Fannie Harren; Marie Harren, Emma Behn; according Secretary, Theresa Ernst.

CORONADO.

CHRISTMAS AT THE BIG HOTEL BY THE BAY.

Many Attractions of Nature, Supplemented by Many Conveniences and Elegances of Art—A Delightful Trip Over the Surf-Line.

I do maintain, and I'll always say, that the Coronado is the most perfect of its kind in the world. It is a perfect model of a hotel, and it is a perfect model of a trip over the Surf-Line.

Los Angeles, Jan. 1889.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] We had not been away for over a year and a day, so when the gracious Christmas season approached, and indulgence became the order of the hour, we thought ourselves of fleeing away from the big, whirling world, that was "too much with us, late and soon," and decided upon Coronado, with its sonorous sound and its remoteness, combined with its ease of access.

Therefore, after a beautiful Monday morning, after a tremendous storm had washed the earth clean, and added a deeper blue to the sky, we rode down to the Santa Fe station, parted with several big round dollars, and received in their place the tiny little pastboard slips in dingy blue which were the open sesame to liberty. When we entered the car, the earlier arrivals had filled the seats upon the desirable side, but as some of them had that temporary air that belongs to those who have just come from the city, we consoled ourselves with the thought that all things come to him who waits, and after having gazed contentedly for an hour upon the soft foothills sloping up to the frowning straits, still dark from the late storm, we were enabled to choose a brace of seats upon the coveted side and ensconce ourselves there for a three hours' audience at Nature's panorama, painted by a master hand in the tint of spring, and without any invidious voice to put us to rest, or that, which we must suffer ourselves to admire to obtain the worth of our money. This beautiful show of what was doing in the outside world was free to all, to be enjoyed indefinitely, only limited by one's own ability to see its flying charms with the inner sense, that is the interpreter and the soul of the outer.

As we arrive at Rivera—which, by the way, I am sure was intended to be Rivera—we are riding through a thick air full of pure sunshine, that penetrates southern sunshine that seems to fairly dip into the ground, into the very roots of the growing things, "bringing out the value," as the painters say, of every blade of grass, every twig on every bough, and the tiniest leaf on the topmost tree, dancing as light as dance it can.

We pass Whittier at a respectful and admiring distance, lying on her pretty green slopes overlooking the valley, and overlooking in turn the mountains, still veiled here and there by ragged clouds, hiding in the hollows, or driven furiously over the peaks, to lose themselves eternally in rain in that mysterious beyond that is just beyond every horizon line, to the imagination the true unknown country. One is hardly likely, in a long day's travel, to see a prettier sight than the flocks of sheep that now begin to dot the valleys, as brown as the soil their tiny, tireless feet are tramping, making here a little group of brownness, there a long line of level fleeces that an ether would revel in.

We pass Orange, with its careful orchards, its pretty avenues of pepper and eucalyptus, and its air of settled prosperity; fly through Santa Ana, where there is great bustle and noise of business, and on to the sea, scarce wondering at the many stations and the rapid upbuilding of the country except when some odd or fanciful name brings up some new idea. El Toro, for example, a name perhaps bestowed in memory of who knows what romantic rescue from an infuriated quadruped by some modern hero. A little after we reach the old mission, crumbling walls of the Old Mission, decaying, unreverenced and uncared for, among its few fertile fields, and with only a bare, bare, bare, and there remaining of all nobility of the splendid line of masonry, under whose arches the old padres used to walk, to watch and to pray. What an eye for situation those padres had. With wisdom and a natural artistic instinct they chose a commanding position, from whose height the Angelus might more sweetly and more penetratingly call to prayer, but never built in barren or unfruitful soil, for next to their religious and their faithful observance, did they do any work in the outdoor air, among the vines and plants that always responded generously to their loving tendance.

At Oceanaide a big brown and green Queen Anne stands with open doors inviting us to dine within during the twenty-five minutes allowed to the American digestion by the railway management. The road now lies by the side of the water with but a slight bank of shifting sand between it and the surf, and on the further side fertile valleys, covered with the young alfalfa, and opening every few miles into small cañons, outlined with the sturdy and robust live-oak, unchanged through the changing seasons, but striking deeper into the soil when battered by the sea-breeze. The sky is gray, and gray the face of the outspread ocean, reflecting the few clouds which are, once in a while, the grateful corrective to eternal sunshine; but out of the dim horizon's line is a band of molten silver that brightens momentarily till the eye, dazzled by its glory, returns to the restful monotony of the foreground. Delayed by the effects upon the track of the big storm of the previous day, it is almost dark when we reach the depot at San Diego, and we give only a glance at its handsome tower as we climb hurriedly into the long "bus" that is to deliver us at the door of the Hotel del Coronado, after a half hour's steady pull from the ferry-boat through what seems to be an inviting country, and which proves by daylight and a whole afternoon's investigation on horseback, to be the cunningest little place in the world, with stores and homes and churches of its own, and, best of all, its tiny little parks, one laid out in the shape of a five-pointed star, filled with the tinsel glories of the white daisies, and another in the shape of a romantic old adobe, with its roof of tiles in such a mosaic of soft colors as no artist but Time could contrive, and covered all over with yellow jasmine, honeysuckle, and acacia, and bubbling over with boxes drunk with honey and sunshine. Inside were only the gardeners' tools and some harmless rubbish, but one could not help wishing it were the bluest of blue, and each other's hearts and the rheumatism in equal portion.

If one takes a holiday, simply to "loaf and invite one's soul," then it really does not matter much where it is spent; but if, as is generally the case, one is seeking distraction rather than repose, then is Coronado an ideal place indeed, for there are so many things to do, so much to see, such a host of objects outside, and a whole cosmos inside the walls of the big hotel, and yet if it is sought to have it all in one, there is more to be seen in the crowd that lives, moves and have their being, with the Hotel del Coronado for their central point. When I speak of things to see, I mean real, salient, obtrusive things—things that can't be ignored, and are there for the use and behoof of everybody, even the philistine; for there are people so finely endowed with sight that they are satisfied with a plain blue sky, the sweet touch of the invisible air, the sensation of sunshine, warm on their shoulders, and such simple things, and some of these same easy-going folk tell such tales of places that people flock there unduly, and themselves, seeing nothing uncommon, return with reviling and contempt. No fear of this at Coronado. First, and simplest, are the walks or rides—for there are plenty of horses for both riding and driving—about the little town, up to the famous Sweetwater dam, with its triumph of modern engineering; all about San Diego and out to the Old Mission, some 12 miles away. For those to whom exertion is a thing abhorred is the ride around the bay to National City and San Diego. To do this, sensibly one takes an early lunch and embarks at the hotel door at 1:30 p.m. on the train, attached to a humming little dummy engine, and is whirled merrily along on a narrow neck of land, between the big, roaring waves of the sea, and the quiet bay, taking such a long course that almost all the mountains change their relative positions, while receding and yet always in sight, the hotel becomes a big white cloud, or, losing at last all outline, like a big swan floating on the water.

The dummy lands you in a dingy and dirty part of San Diego, from whence, if very patient, and waits long enough, a bob-tail car rescues you and you joggle along to the ferry, and having again crossed the bay, you take a second dummy—a blood relation of the first—and in less time than it would take a lazy man to say the words, you are at home once more. And very like "home" the hotel is, for it is almost as much more so than any it has ever been my fortune to see. The sense of bigness, bareness and baldness is done away with altogether by the simple but artful device of having low ceilings of natural wood, and the many rooms opening into one another, all cozily curtained, filled with the soft incandescence of the electric light and the ruddy fire, all together imparting that indescribable sense of ease and comfort which, to a man at least, one "home" more than his wife's affection or his children's precocity.

PUBLIC WORKS.

THE USUAL ROUTINE BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS.

The First-street Grade Discussed—Paving Resolution Recommended—A Number of Grading Contracts Passed On—Petitions Recommended.

The Board of Public Works held its regular session yesterday, all present. The grade of First street through to the arroyo on the west was first discussed.

O. O. Trantum came before the board and made a long argument against the putting of any traffic grade over First street, or that section of it referred to. He thought that if somebody wanted to put a tunnel through the hills, let it be put through Third street. It would not cost half as much. There is a proposition to change the grade on First street, and he understood it. You have no right to order a Panama canal through First street. It would cost thousands of dollars to build it, and he said, he was finally informed that there was no idea of changing the grade as yet, and that the proposition had been dropped.

The mass of the City Surveyor of First street were introduced, and Mr. Duckweiser explained that there was a misunderstanding as regards the street. Through it the street was only mapped at 60 feet when it should be 65 feet. Lots had been sold on the 60-foot tracing of the street in the Mott tract. Instead of the usual 65 feet, and this, Mr. Duckweiser stated, was going to cause some complications and affect the straight line of the street. He said, he proposed a line which would not affect improvements. He had advertised for the property owners to be present today for this purpose or setting this matter. Action upon First street was deferred until 3:30 p.m.

It was recommended that the bid of A. A. Hetcher, for grading, at $1.90 per lineal foot, be accepted.

That Chase & French be awarded the contract to grade Ann street at $1.60 per lineal foot.

That Chase & French be awarded the contract to grade Howard street, from Aliso to Macy, at $1.65 per lineal foot.

That F. W. Barn be awarded the contract to grade Patton street from Temple to Court street at $2.50 per lineal foot.

That G. Adams have the contract to grade Hope street from Fourth to Fifth street at $4.48 per lineal foot.

That D. P. Dunnehan be awarded the contract to grade Victor avenue, from Temple street to Bellevue avenue at $2.60 per lineal foot.

That D. P. Dunnehan be awarded the contract to grade Cedar street from Waters to Alpine, at $2.60 per lineal foot.

That the petition of property owners on Harrison street, complaining of the way in which the street in front of their property was graded and that the work was not done according to contract, was now being fixed satisfactorily.

Gen. E. E. Hewitt called attention to the fact that if a franchise was granted the Depot Street Railway Company for a line from Fifth street to Wolfskill avenue west, it would greatly block the street.

It was recommended that the petition of O. A. Moore, asking the privilege to build a cesspool in front of his property on Downey avenue be denied.

Also that the petition of C. Mahom and others, asking that the grade be established on Earl street, between Fifth and Seventh streets, be referred to the City Surveyor.

Also that the petition of R. G. Getson and others, asking that the grade be established on Walters street between Alameda and Buena Vista, be referred to the City Surveyor.

Also that the petition of the property owners on Walters street between Alameda and Buena Vista, be referred to the City Surveyor.

Also that the petition of James Cook, to put Fairbanks scales in front of his place of business at the junction of Main and Kurie streets be granted.

Also that the petition of Merced Abbott, to lease a triangular lot on Mission road and Gallardo street, be referred to the Land Commission.

Also that the petition of A. E. Sepulveda, to lease lots 3 and 4 of block H, Hancock survey, 10 acres, for cultivation, be referred to the Land Commission.

Also that the petition of W. C. Marsh, for an extension of 10 days be granted him to complete his grading contracts, be referred to the Street Superintendent.

Also that the petition of James McLaughlin, asking for a catch basin at the corner of Second and Pearl, be filed and action deferred.

Also that the petition of J. F. White, complaining of the pavement of First street, between Main and Los Angeles streets, be referred to the City Surveyor.

Also that the petition of R. C. Shaw, in reference to storm damage at Courthouse, be referred to the City Surveyor.

PUBLIC WORKS.

THE USUAL ROUTINE BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS.

The First-street Grade Discussed—Paving Resolution Recommended—A Number of Grading Contracts Passed On—Petitions Recommended.

The Board of Public Works held its regular session yesterday, all present. The grade of First street through to the arroyo on the west was first discussed.

O. O. Trantum came before the board and made a long argument against the putting of any traffic grade over First street, or that section of it referred to. He thought that if somebody wanted to put a tunnel through the hills, let it be put through Third street. It would not cost half as much. There is a proposition to change the grade on First street, and he understood it. You have no right to order a Panama canal through First street. It would cost thousands of dollars to build it, and he said, he was finally informed that there was no idea of changing the grade as yet, and that the proposition had been dropped.

The mass of the City Surveyor of First street were introduced, and Mr. Duckweiser explained that there was a misunderstanding as regards the street. Through it the street was only mapped at 60 feet when it should be 65 feet. Lots had been sold on the 60-foot tracing of the street in the Mott tract. Instead of the usual 65 feet, and this, Mr. Duckweiser stated, was going to cause some complications and affect the straight line of the street. He said, he proposed a line which would not affect improvements. He had advertised for the property owners to be present today for this purpose or setting this matter. Action upon First street was deferred until 3:30 p.m.

It was recommended that the bid of A. A. Hetcher, for grading, at $1.90 per lineal foot, be accepted.

That Chase & French be awarded the contract to grade Ann street at $1.60 per lineal foot.

That Chase & French be awarded the contract to grade Howard street, from Aliso to Macy, at $1.65 per lineal foot.

That F. W. Barn be awarded the contract to grade Patton street from Temple to Court street at $2.50 per lineal foot.

That G. Adams have the contract to grade Hope street from Fourth to Fifth street at $4.48 per lineal foot.

That D. P. Dunnehan be awarded the contract to grade Victor avenue, from Temple street to Bellevue avenue at $2.60 per lineal foot.

That D. P. Dunnehan be awarded the contract to grade Cedar street from Waters to Alpine, at $2.60 per lineal foot.

That the petition of property owners on Harrison street, complaining of the way in which the street in front of their property was graded and that the work was not done according to contract, was now being fixed satisfactorily.

Gen. E. E. Hewitt called attention to the fact that if a franchise was granted the Depot Street Railway Company for a line from Fifth street to Wolfskill avenue west, it would greatly block the street.

It was recommended that the petition of O. A. Moore, asking the privilege to build a cesspool in front of his property on Downey avenue be denied.

Also that the petition of C. Mahom and others, asking that the grade be established on Earl street, between Fifth and Seventh streets, be referred to the City Surveyor.

Also that the petition of R. G. Getson and others, asking that the grade be established on Walters street between Alameda and Buena Vista, be referred to the City Surveyor.

Also that the petition of the property owners on Walters street between Alameda and Buena Vista, be referred to the City Surveyor.

Also that the petition of James Cook, to put Fairbanks scales in front of his place of business at the junction of Main and Kurie streets be granted.

Also that the petition of Merced Abbott, to lease a triangular lot on Mission road and Gallardo street, be referred to the Land Commission.

Also that the petition of A. E. Sepulveda, to lease lots 3 and 4 of block H, Hancock survey, 10 acres, for cultivation, be referred to the Land Commission.

Also that the petition of W. C. Marsh, for an extension of 10 days be granted him to complete his grading contracts, be referred to the Street Superintendent.

Also that the petition of James McLaughlin, asking for a catch basin at the corner of Second and Pearl, be filed and action deferred.

Also that the petition of J. F. White, complaining of the pavement of First street, between Main and Los Angeles streets, be referred to the City Surveyor.

Also that the petition of R. C. Shaw, in reference to storm damage at Courthouse, be referred to the City Surveyor.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

Justice Austin assessed a few plain drunks $5 per capita yesterday.

Peter Stoll has failed papers in insolvency. Assets, $247.74; liabilities, $202.30.

The streets that have been paved were dusty enough for sprinkling cars yesterday.

Ben C. Truman of the Southern Pacific newspaper department was in the city yesterday.

The railroad agents are confident that several big excursions will leave the East for Southern California in a few days.

There are numbered telegrams at J. D. Gilchrist, Walter Chur, Joseph L. Jaynes.

The street-sweeper now used in this city would make a good playground for a lot of 10-year-old boys. A two-pound cubbiehouse will throw it out of its course.

Pat Ryan and W. Randall, arrested for begging on the streets, were yesterday fined $50 apiece by Justice Austin. In default of payment they were committed to the County Jail for 30 days.

The following named passengers left on yesterday morning's train for the north: A. J. Taylor, W. H. Perry, Mrs. E. Lewis, M. C. Koon, M. Way, C. R. Cumstock.

A few drunks and lodgers, Charles Pegler for peddling without a license, and Min Koo, for petty larceny, were all the business that was transacted at the police station yesterday up to 9 o'clock last night.

Last night the members of the Arizona Legislature, who have been "doing" this city during the past few days, left for Prescott, where the Territorial Legislature will convene this week.

The suit of S. B. Lockwood against C. F. Munson, to recover $25 for board furnished defendant was up for hearing before Justice Jackson yesterday. Judgment for $15.35 was rendered in favor of the complainant.

There are two or three fights on the books for today. One will be fought in Santa Monica. This afternoon between two professional pugilists, it is said that another one is to come off at Billy Manning's some time tonight.

The electric road is in operation once more. The road was closed for the past four or five months, and had the company not put its cars in motion last week the chances are that the Council would have taken its franchise away from it.

Justice Austin yesterday held J. T. Williams to answer a charge of burglary before the Superior Court and set his bail at $1000. Williams is charged with having on January 11 broken into the residence of J. D. Sumner and stolen a suit of clothes.

Among the visitors at the County Jail yesterday was a lady lawyer from Washington, D. C., named Mrs. M. Ricker, who is visiting Los Angeles for rest and recreation. The lady took a great interest in everything that was shown her, and when she left the jail she purchased a quantity of chewing tobacco for the prisoners.

Justice Darcy has established a number of new rules, looking to greater stringency in the regulations for the government of the jail. Among them is one forbidding the formation of a "gang" or court among the prisoners for the extortion of money and valuables from each other, and another forbids visitors speaking to any one in the jail except those that they come to see.

But little was done at the County Jail yesterday, only one real criminal being brought in—James Davis, from Pomona, charged with grand larceny. The other arrivals were four soldiers and one from Wilmington and one from San Fernando. All of the papers had to be sent back to the Justice at Pomona to have certain irregularities corrected, but the prisoners were locked up just the same. Fourteen prisoners were discharged yesterday, leaving 143 still in the jail.

A jury was impaneled yesterday in Judge Cheney's court to try Charles Gravel for the murder of Felix Monroie, whom he stabbed and killed at Wilmington on July 25, 1888. Testimony in the case will be heard tomorrow. The following jurors were sworn in to try the case: J. M. Rogers, J. A. Koch, J. S. Talkington, B. F. Ritter, William Rector, C. J. Morrison, J. L. Floyd, R. B. Bishop, R. H. Pinney, G. E. Torrey, W. Dockstadter, Benjamin Hayman.

Hotel d'Oranade.

The great rush of visitors coming from the East, combined with the well-known attractions to be found at the Hotel d'Oranade, has, as might be expected, made things very busy here. But it is a fortunate circumstance that the hotel is so well situated, and the pleasant sunny rooms, a bountiful table and pleasant endless variety awaiting their acceptance.

All who can avail themselves of the opportunity offered by the cheap excursion to next Saturday, which leaves here at 10 a. m. to make a visit to this incomparable winter resort.

Dollars Earned—D. J. Savel.

The pro-rioters of the Plunder Store, 19 North Main street, having made arrangements with their factory in New York for an immense stock of spring clothing especially designed for the Los Angeles trade, are now selling their winter stock at less than factory prices. They have made a reduction of 10 per cent on all their men's and boys' overcoats. You can purchase a splendid cassimere suit for $4.95 that originally sold for $5.50. English worsted suits for $5.50 that are really worth $10.00. Four-button cutaway dress suits, $12.50; solid everywhere at $20. Reductions have been made in every line of winter clothing, as room must be made for their spring stock. We advise our readers to go to the Plunder Store, 19 North Main street, where clothing can be purchased at less than manufacturers' prices.

The Agency of the Hotel d'Oranade, Corner of Belling and Franklin streets, is a busy place these days for winter. They have many callers seeking information or examining the charts to select their rooms from. But the hotel is so spacious with its 750 apartments that all making application can depend upon securing comfortable sunny rooms in this the most commodious and charming winter resort on the Pacific Coast.

The advertisement of sale of lots on the "Tibet" tract on the 24th of this month, stating that the sale will be positive, while high prices are being offered, induces persons of limited means to obtain one of the best building spots in Arlington. INTERESTING AND PROFITABLE READING.

A person of our stock is now at hand and we want our stock as low as possible. If you are an inducement to purchase what you want at present or need later, we are willing to part with goods at ridiculous prices. We want as much cash and as little stock as possible. Commission or profit is not of our consideration. This week we will go through our various departments and sell them out on one at fabulously low prices. Watch our windows and our local and one-half yard of silk and tulle mixed braid trimming to match $3.45.

They have been on exhibition, you can judge their value. If $3.45 is an inducement, they will sell, and by the number of orders of paying deposits to secure them, which we would not accept, they will all be gone early in the day. Ten yards of French tulle and one-half yard of silk and tulle mixed braid trimming to match $3.45.

Our perfume and toilet department has been especially popular. To wonder we place the identical goods before the public at half the price paid for them before our advent to this city.
